DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

1. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

2. The text of those sections of Title 35, U.S. Code not included in this action can be found in a prior Office action.

Claims 1-5 and 7-10 are rejected under 35 USC §103(a). This rejection is set forth in the prior Office action mailed on June 07, 2007.

Response to Arguments

3. Applicant's arguments filed on October 07, 2007 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

Applicants argue that a) recovering the product from the first zone in the primary reference, Brink, would stifle Brink's purpose since it would lead to the formation of pollutants in the combustion of the organic materials. Applicants also argue b) that there are two gas streams in the claimed process, while the primary reference includes only one gas stream. The arguments are not convincing for the following reasons:

- With regard to a), one of ordinary skill in the art would certainly realize that recovering the gases at that junction does not necessarily create pollution, especially if the temperature is maintained within the levels taught by the primary reference. Note that Brink teaches that to preclude the recombination of the intermediate products the temperature needs to be within certain levels and maintained, see abstract. Moreover, the secondary reference teaches the recovery of the gases after the pyrolysis which does not include the release of obnoxious gases into the atmosphere and actually recovers a gas that is a valuable by-product, dimethyl disulfide. Therefore, the recovering of the gases at that junction would not go against the teachings of the primary reference. It has been held that “[R]eferences are evaluated by what they suggest to one versed in the art, rather than by their specific disclosures.” In re Bozek, 163 USPQ 545 (CCPA) 1969. In this case one of ordinary skill in the art would certainly realize the advantages of recovering the gases after the pyrolysis. It has been held that “[K]nown work in one field of endeavor may prompt variations of it for use in either the same field or a different one based on design incentives or other market forces/market place incentives if the variations are predictable to one of ordinary skill in the art.” It has also been held that it is obvious to try, choosing from a finite number of identified, predictable solutions with a reasonable expectation of success. See recent Board decision Ex parte Smith, --USPQ2d--, slip op. at 20, (Bd. Pat. App. & Interf. June 25, 2007) (Citing KSR, 82 USPQ2d at 1396).

- With regard to b), the combination of the references would have two gas streams, the ones in which the gases are recovered and then the stream in which the coke is recovered, i.e. the sodium sulphide which would be converted to hydrogen sulfide in the absorber

Conclusion

4. THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
